

Cabinet Decisions

Since then, however, a number of factors have developed. Perhaps the chief of these has been the widespread approval here which greeted most of the recommendations — including that for a large slice of financial aid for Britain — in President Truman's presentation to Congress of the Marshall recovery plan for Europe. Another is the increased Soviet campaign of accusations against Anglo-American policies, from Germany south to Greece and the Middle East.

JUST WHAT France's memorandum to the cabinet will contain remains a top secret. But in view of the "full review" of foreign policy, which government sources say will be made, it seems certain the blueprint will deal with some, if not all, of these questions:

1. Methods of winning France into the present Anglo-American economic operation of Western Germany.

2. The advisability and dangers of extending some degree of political control to the Germans in the western zones.

3. Steps for strengthening the British position among the Arab states through new treaties of alliance.

4. The objectives of Britain and the Commonwealth if and when a peace treaty with Japan is drafted.

Great Storm

three: Rhode Island, two and New Hampshire, one. The Long Island railroad, transportation link between the city and Nassau and Suffolk counties, was hardest hit by the storm. "The Long Island railroad was the most electrically disrupted section of the railroad were operated by the Long Island Railroad. It was stranded in trains during the evening night."

BUSES BETWEEN New York and New Jersey were operating only on main highways. The Hudson tubes, connecting New York and Jersey City and New York, were reported still out of service. The Pennsylvania railroad said it was operating a New Jersey.

The forecast for today and tomorrow was cloudy and cold. Below freezing temperatures continued. Efforts of workers to clear some of the city's main thorough-all 840 buses on 33 lines of the New York City omnibus company and the Fifth Avenue Coach Company were out of service.

THE SNOWFALL slowed and in some cases stopped railroad transportation. Virtually all bus lines were brought to a standstill. Planes were grounded and many were buried in snow.

Nearly all transient harbor craft either dropped anchor in the snow or remained tied fast to their piers, while ferry boats — a commutation lifeline — groped hoarsely through the peeling flakes, 10 to 20 minutes behind schedule.

The city's subway and elevated lines lagged well behind schedule and home-bound throngs, as a result, jammed their terminals.

The Hudson tubes, which connect the city to New Jersey points, were closed. The Hudson tubes, which connect the city to New Jersey points, were closed.

The city's gala night club life was stifled by the transportation snarl.

Broadway theatres and motion picture houses reported business off from 25 to 75 per cent and Broadway life was virtually lifeless.

The emergency remained so great that officials announced at city hall late last night that the mayor's emergency board was ordered to meet today to determine steps needed to meet the crisis.

A possible shortage of fuel was seen by coal and oil dealers who urged householders with sufficient coal for at least five days not to ask further deliveries until streets are cleared. Food deliveries, while reduced, were expected to be adequate.

BOSTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—A howling northeast storm, raging with increasing fury during the night, left nearly two feet of snow in New England today and took at least 12 lives.

Southern New England was the hardest hit, with Connecticut reporting snowdrifts five feet high. Hundreds of motorists were stranded.

THE WEATHER bureau said the storm would taper off this morning and end some time this afternoon. Northern New England was expected to get a heavy fall before the day ends, and the Maritime Provinces were expected to be adequate.

Trouble Looms

representatives busy attempting to reconcile the Dutch and Indonesian Republics. There is little optimism in Batavia that they will succeed in finding a permanent solution.

The most bitter conflict in Southeast Asia rages in Indo-China, where nearly 35,000,000 people are struggling for independence. The French new lease to deal politically with the Viet Nam republic, which Anna-mite nationalists established in 1945, are using an estimated 10,000 troops to suppress the Viet Nam republic.

The November coup was precipitated by corruption among high officials and the military. The former Premier Phou Phanhong might have been implicated in the 1946 death by shooting of King Ananda Mahidol, and resentment over the return to France of the Indo-China border provinces existed in 1945.

MAHAI, Phibun Songkarn, wartime dictator and Japanese collaborator, framed his political career on the basis of his opposition to the British, whom he is under British protection.

Malaya the federated Malay states and the Straits Settlements are now under British protection. The Malayan Democratic Union, a Malayan nationalist party, is planning for independence but their voices are faint.

IN BACKWARD Borneo there is a fight of all nationalist movements as yet. Odds are that Britain, which has kept ahead of the tide of all nationalist movements in India and Burma, ultimately will attempt to force the British in Malaya and British Borneo when the population is ripe for self-rule.

clubs had more entertainers than customers. . . . THE LINER Queen Mary, some of whose passengers brought their luggage to the pier aboard sleds, finally sailed today after the storm had delayed her departure nearly 12 hours. The Canadian Olympic ski team went aboard the Queen Mary last night after some of the members had to walk part way across town. Thomas Pickering of Montreal, team secretary-treasurer, reported the team of nine men and two women had no skis with them. "We probably would have got more training skis through the streets if the Queen Mary than we have had in the past few weeks at Val d'Isère," he said.

Russia Has It Too

Pravda too, reducing the amount of money in circulation. But it is not following the Moscow plan of just taking away money that people have earned and saved. Instead, the National Assembly has approved a bill which will compel Frenchmen to invest a substantial part of their earnings in national bonds.

Canadians can appreciate the difference in method. In wartime they were required by law to lend their government a part of their income as "compulsory savings." They are now getting the money back. They lost nothing through the operation. This is the plan that is being adopted in France.

Had Canada taken the course now taken at Moscow, the lenders of the compulsory saving would get nothing back. The money would be gone permanently, and the owners would have no claim for a refund of any part of it. They would be poorer, as the Russians are, by the amount thus taken from them.

The Moscow deviation from the further objection, which must be a particularly sore point in the minds of millions of Russians, that it was sprung without warning and contrary to expectations. The Russian wage-earner who had saved ten rubles supposed that he had ten rubles. Now he is informed that he has only one ruble. And the OGPU will see that he doesn't try to do anything about it.

The purpose in both countries is the same—to curb inflation. That disposes of the pretence that Communism is boom-proof, therefore slump-proof. Karl Marx and Lenin notwithstanding, Stalin knows better. Inflation struck Russia as it struck every other country, in wartime; and as it has struck countries all down the ages, regardless of what economic systems they had or whether they had any organized system at all.

Political Outlawry

The House of Commons, "on division," allowed Mr. Wilfrid Laurier, member for Quebec-Montreal, to move that the House outlaw the Communist party and any other groups deemed to be detrimental to "the safety of the state."

This of course does not imply that the bill will pass; nor that any of the members who voted to permit its introduction will vote for it. All they did was refuse to give the sponsor permission to put his proposal before the House—permission which is practically never denied to any member, whatever the subject or nature of his legislative offering.

Substantially the same bill was introduced at last session but nothing came of it. It died in the committee. It may be that elsewhere the same fate is likely to befall the present one.

One thing can be said for the bill. If Parliament was going in for witch-hunting, the enactment of a measure of the kind would be the right way to begin. Had the Congress at Washington started out with such a Senate investigating committee would have been defied by a contingent of movie writers and actors from Hollywood. There would, in that case, have been clear and specific penalties for treating the committee with contempt, and nobody could have refused to answer questions on the ground that his citizenship rights were being set aside.

That Parliament will start such a campaign is improbable. That may come some time, but hardly now. The objection, coming most heavily against the day is that to outlaw the "reds" would drive them underground. That it would make them anything other than Communists, or cause them to cease from economic sabotage, no one supposes. Parliament is likely to take the view that since they are here, it is better to let them operate in the light of day than to encourage them to do so; thereby identifying themselves and keeping the public on guard.

Good News from Salisbury
About eighteen months ago the British Government set up a research establishment in Wilthshire to find an answer to the age-old question of why people catch colds.

Volunteers were called for to undergo experiments. They came forward, 500 of them all told. Honey-moon couples, students and office workers flocked to the place, where they were marooned two-by-two in well insulated apartments for ten days each, the Government paying all expenses and giving them three shillings per day for spending money—which they didn't have much chance to spend. It took a holiday to get there.

Now the research directors report that they know what causes the "common cold." They say it is a virus, too small to be seen through the most powerful microscope, only 10-10,000 of a millimetre long. They also say a little bug doesn't freeze to death at 94 degrees below zero. They do not explain how they measured an animal too small to be detected by a super-microscope, but they know what it is like and how it gets from one person to another.

Off-hand this sounds pretty discouraging. An enemy that can't be seen and is so indifferent to temperature is obviously elusive and hard to fight. Against this the layman can only pit his well-founded and fast-growing faith in the scientist. But that is enough to ban despair and temper fears. Having identified the microbe, the wizards of science will find a way to curb his operations. They richly deserve that measure of confidence.

The "common cold" is by all odds the most common of human ailments. It is common to all climates and all races. Sneezing, sniffing and coughing have heralded the march of man down the ages. The world will wait with anxious interest for the next announcement from Salisbury—how to evade this sub-microscopic virus, and what to do if he catches us.

Good Resolutions

There are many strange practices among our social customs. Perhaps none is more strange than sequence of festivals, the pagan New Year, following the Christian Christmas; in which one turns from acknowledging Jesus as the only hope to the end to the wholesale making of good resolutions exactly one week later.

There is nothing the matter with good resolutions. Wholesome intentions must always precede wholesome behavior. But it is the implication of New Year resolutions that is a sore point to many. That man of his own efforts and by his own will, can translate himself into a better being.

This assumption is peculiarly outrageous when it follows the celebration of the birth of Christ which exemplifies so powerfully the inescapable fact that man cannot possibly save himself.

Indeed, the fact of man's inability to save himself is one of the cardinal reasons for the Incarnation of God the Son.

Had there been no fall of man, no separation from God, no original sin, the birth of our Saviour and certainly the death of our Saviour might not have been necessary.

That God should choose to earth, making little God so that we, in our littleness, might reach up to Him, is the everlasting testimony that we cannot, without His help, make ourselves better men and women.

Good resolutions are appropriate at the New Year, as they are appropriate at any time. But they are inappropriate if we realize that we must have God's help to implement them, only as we realize that God must be part of every resolution.

Without that realization, such resolutions are empty and fruitless.

Art and Politics

By DOROTHY THOMPSON
I have no doubt that the artist, like the politician, should wish to do with art, but with politics. He is a musician, yet he is also a member of the Communist party, which is not dedicated to art but to particularly dirty political objectives.

IF WE ACCEPT Coetzee's viewpoint that the artist is above politics and the law, that was wrong with all the Nazi collaborators. Gerhart Hauptmann was a far greater artist than Hans Ender, but it only made one stomach turn the more that his dylanman magnanimity could include the waste of Buchenwald and Belsen. If anything is dying, it is the spirit of the artist. It is the idea that genius puts a person above the rules governing ordinary mortals. That concept was the very essence of Hitler.

Dr. Alan Nunn was a distinguished atomic physicist who was contracted with the British government to develop atomic bombs. He was a Russian agent and who gave a Russian agent function. He was a Russian agent and who gave a Russian agent function. He was a Russian agent and who gave a Russian agent function.

OSCAR WILDE was a most colorful character. He was a man of letters and a man of letters. He was a man of letters and a man of letters. He was a man of letters and a man of letters. He was a man of letters and a man of letters.

Pension Figures

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
A Department of Veterans Affairs spokesman has written columns of figures that I have put in the picture of the plight of war pensioners in Canada.

He contends the facts in three points I tried to make:
1. That Canada's pension scale is "downright miserably" by comparison with what is paid in the U.S.
2. That no War Veterans Allowance may be paid to a veteran unless he is a Canadian citizen or a resident of Canada.

AS TO POINT 1, events spoke for themselves. Since I wrote my article the Canadian government has announced increased allowances for war veterans. The amount of $10 per month. The announcement of this meagre handout has followed the following letter of protest from coast to coast.

AS TO POINT 2, the D.V.A. spokesman's statement that "treatment of veterans was not made out of a humanitarian sense but out of a patriotic sense" is a far cry from the truth. The D.V.A. spokesman is still far below the U.S. scale I set out. The D.V.A. spokesman's point against my term "miserably" by comparison.

I WAS CERTAINLY not sufficiently precise in my figures. I have now accurately done to the last decimal point. When I wrote that the amount of the highest pension was getting "more than $50 per cent" of the D.V.A. pension, I meant to say "more than $50 per cent" of the D.V.A. pension.

AS TO POINT 3, the D.V.A. spokesman's statement that "treatment of veterans was not made out of a humanitarian sense but out of a patriotic sense" is a far cry from the truth. The D.V.A. spokesman is still far below the U.S. scale I set out.

A Simple Remedy

They Get Inflation Even In New Guinea

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—(AP)—One way to whip inflation and the high cost of living, merely with pieces of newspaper, was reported yesterday by Abraham Gitlow, of New York University's department of economics.

IT'S A STORY of their money losing value, just like American dollars and Russian rubles, and of a missionary rescued from poverty by newspapers suddenly worth five pounds of potatoes for half a page.

It happened among the Mount Hagen tribes in Central New Guinea, Gitlow told the anthropology section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which opened its week-long annual meeting yesterday.

Inflation hit the tribes, which are among the last in the world to come under the influence of modern industrial society, "when white men came in 1951," he said.

The natives use shells as money. Gold-lipped shells and large saucer-shaped ones roughly correspond to dollars, while smaller ones were like pennies and nickels.

The white men brought with them many shells to pay for labor that the shell money depreciated in value. But the natives refused to accept the "shell standard."

ONE SHELL used to buy a 200-pound pig. With shells more plentiful, the natives increased prices. Two shells bought a smaller pig. Some of the natives became millionaires, buying land, houses, and other things. A chief could afford to buy 10 wives, instead of only three.

Within the Hagen area, however, the depreciation of shells put the local missionary in a bad way, Gitlow said. He hadn't enough shell money to buy food for his mission.

But he had some old newspapers and magazines. And the natives had grown fond of cigarettes—piper-wrapped ones—when American soldiers had been stationed there. They wanted paper to use for their home-grown cigarettes.

Instead of wrapping the tobacco in a leaf as they had done before, a BRISK TRADE flourished, and in a single day the missionary reported getting a ton of food for old newspaper pages.

A quarter sheet of the New York Times will buy three pounds of sweet potatoes, or two bushels of corn, or a large bundle of firewood. A half sheet obtains a large bundle of sugar cane, or a large bundle of bananas, or about five pounds of potatoes, or a half day's labor, cutting the mission station's lawn.

Two Dead, Eight Missing in Wreck

HELSINKI, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The master of the wrecked American freighter Park Victory said yesterday two crew members had died of exposure and eight others were missing.

The officer, Capt. A. L. Zepf, arrived in Turku yesterday with 37 other survivors. He said names of the dead and missing would be called to the Lundenburg shipping society in New York and made public after next of kin had been notified.

The captain said the 7,607-ton Park Victory, dragging her anchors in heavy seas, struck rocks off Utö Island in the Baltic sea early Christmas Day, broke in two and sank immediately.

A. Sjöman, Finnish pilot who was aboard at the time, said three lifeboats were launched toward the nearby islet but one did not reach its destination. (One of the crew died on the islet, he said, and a second before rescue boats took the survivors to Turku.)

The Park Victory was bound for Turku from Newport News, Va., with 5,500 tons of coal.

Forestry May Aid Geology

VANCOUVER, Dec. 27.—(CP)—A new field of scientific development, linking together for the first time botany, agriculture, forestry and geology, may have been opened by two University of British Columbia geologists.

In a report published yesterday by the Geological Society of America the geologists indicate copper and zinc deposits may be located by examination of ashes from trees and shrubs of the area.

The geologist, Dr. Harry V. Warren and Charles H. Houston said: "We believe we have demonstrated the necessity for linking vegetation with the geology of an area."

The discovery, they made during an analysis of metal content in trees and shrubs in B.C.

May Be Communist In Argentina Still

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The Argentine Supreme Court ruled yesterday that membership in the Communist party is not sufficient reason for cancelling naturalized citizenship.

The court upheld a decision rejecting an effort by a government prior to that of President Peron to take away the citizenship papers of Emilio Forde, a lawyer and prominent Communist who immigrated from Italy and was naturalized in 1925.

Want Politics

BELGRADE, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Yugoslavia has demanded that Italy surrender to her the Italian market during 1949—one of the most important of the interior, Achille Marzotto, and Gen. Tadeo Orlando, secretary-general of the Italian war ministry, the government announced yesterday.

The Italian officials were wanted for trial in Yugoslavia on war crimes charges.

Brazil has about 27 per cent of the world's estimated iron reserves.

They pointed out that Japan at present is primarily interested in buying from non-dollar countries, but that in the case of coal, Canada would be a probable supplier.

Lots of Traders Named in List

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—A list of 1,240 traders in wheat was made public by the agriculture department last night but it threw no immediate light on the hot question of whether government officials used "inside information" to reap speculative profits.

Named on the list were persons who were active in the wheat futures market on the Chicago Board of Trade on April 30, 1946.

The department did not identify any of the names as occupation or administrator J. M. Mehl of the Commodity Exchange Administration—agency with limited authority to regulate the futures market—told a press conference he did not know whether any government officials were on it.

The list included Hallett and Carey company of Winnipeg with transactions of 50,000 bushels of wheat.

This is the second list released by the department since Congress last week adopted legislation directing that the names of about 14,000 traders active in the futures markets during the past two years be made public.

Harold E. Spenser who seeks the Republican presidential nomination, and some members of Congress have charged that "government insiders" have been profiting in the markets as a result of inside information.

Marooned Fliers Now at Goose Bay

HALIFAX, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Nine American fliers who had been marooned on a frozen Labrador lake since their flying fortress crashed last Christmas Eve are safe at Goose Bay, Labrador, after being flown to the base in a rescue plane, the RCMP search and rescue division reported last night.

The lumbering rescue plane, equipped with skis and carrying portable jet-propulsion apparatus to assist in the take-off from the small frozen lake, picked up the men late this afternoon and flew them to Goose.

John, jet-propelled take-off assistance apparatus was necessary to lift the Dakota and her load from the heavy snow blanketing Lake Akro, where the plane landed after running out of fuel.

The plane was carrying Christmas presents to isolated outposts and settlements along the bleak Labrador coast.

None of the fliers was injured.

N.B. Lumber Exports Show Big Decline

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Dec. 27.—(CP)—Lumber firms here yesterday estimated New Brunswick's lumber cut this year at less than half of that in 1948. The drop out from crown lands amounted to 430,000 cords and 110,000 board feet and when the value of New Brunswick forest products topped the $60,000,000 mark.

Principal reason for the decline was reported as the closing of the Communist Kingdom market with uncertainty of other markets also a factor.

In 1948, forest products exported from the province were valued at $57,000,000. Now because of the economic situation, no lumber is being sent to the United Kingdom.

Snowstorm Rages, Upsets Schedules

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 27.—(AP)—The Argentine register carried this front-page notice yesterday as a snowstorm raged.

"Because of the intensity of the snow storm, the register will omit today's final market edition."

Register employees, like hundreds of workers throughout the city, were dismissed early.

Necessary Safeguard

Orkney Islanders Object To Blockships Removal

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, Dec. 27.—(Reuters)—The Orkney Islanders, who perhaps better than anyone can claim to long and loyal services to Britain's modern naval power, are dismayed at the news that several of the blockships off the eastern approaches to Scapa Flow, great land-locked anchorage off the north coast of Scotland, are to be removed by the British Iron and Steel Federation as part of the scrap drive to reach the 14,000,000-ton steel target for 1949.

The 12 blockships, which lie on either side of the £100,000,000 concrete causeway linking four small islands with the rest of Orkney, are considered by the islands to be useful and necessary breakwaters.

They were built at the instigation of Winston Churchill, war-time prime minister, after the sinking of the British battleship Royal Oak by a U-boat which penetrated into the anchorage.

It is claimed that they play an essential part in the general barrier to take the impact of tide and heavy seas, and it is recalled the breaches were made during the early construction of the barrier in 1940.

Admiralty experts, while admitting that the blockships have acted as a breakwater, categorically state that their removal should not endanger the causeway.

The blockships, which total about 50,000 tons, are a constant reminder to the Orkney Islanders that one of the five subsidiary channels into Scapa Flow, once considered a remote and impenetrable harbor for a whole army, was left sufficiently blocked so that an audacious U-boat commander

Preston's 3-2 Victory Tighten Soccer Race

LONDON, Dec. 21. —(Reuters).—The race for the English League's first division leadership tightened Friday as Preston North End avenged its Christmas-Day defeat by Burnley in one of the feature games of traditional Boxing Day football matches.

Third-place Preston won 3-2 to move within five points of the leaders, Arsenal, who were 40th. The loss kept Burnley three points behind Arsenal, former Christmas Day for the 1945 time in 32 starts.

HOLIDAY crowds who jammed stadiums throughout the United Kingdom were favored with mild weather and there was bright, sun, reasonable sunshine in some sections.

Birmingham City, second division, were defeated, although side, main tained their three-point lead under second-place West Bromwich Albion dropped a 1-0 decision to Newcastle United.

In the third division of northern section Barrow took over the top spot by edging Halifax Town 2-1. Three teams, Rotherham United, Lincoln City and Accrington Stanley, who did not play yesterday, were designated for the No. 1 position after the Christmas Day games.

QUEEN'S PARK Rangers increased their top berth in the third division's southern section with a lucky 1-0 victory over Walford when a Watford player scored on his own goal.

Tommy Lawton scored twice to pace North County to a 5-1 triumph over second-place Swindon Town in a replay of a postponed Christmas Day game.

American League Sets 16 Fielding Records

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. —(AP).—Sixteen fielding records were set or tied in the 1947 American League Baseball season and Cleveland established a new club standard with a percentage of .985, committing the fewest errors in major league history—104 miscues in 147 games.

The New York Yankees, official league statistics showed, also had the previous low for errors with 107, but their mark will not be recorded in the books. The 1947 fielding percentage for two errors in 478 chances for the entire season was second among catchers, Larin Robinson of New York, leading the nominal leader with 39 74 games.

THE AMERICAN League also set a new major league fielding percentage as a unit with .985. The previous record was .974 set by the National League in 1945.

Best among first basemen in the Junior circuit was Rudy York, a new club standard with a percentage of .985, committing the fewest errors in 147 chances.

Philadelphia's Pete Suder topped second basemen with a percentage of .986 for 140 games.

AMONG third basemen, Henry Masi of Philadelphia set a new major league record of .984 per cent. Masi's, appearing in 134 games, edged five times while handling 438 chances.

Cleveland's Lou Bourque replaced his old American League fielding record of .978 set in 1944, with new mark of .982. Bourque edged 14 chances.

New York's Joe DiMaggio tied a junior circuit record in percentage of .987 in 129 games.

CATCHER Warren Ratt of Philadelphia, who had performed in 147 consecutive games without an error since September 1945, tied a major record, finally bobbled on May 30, 1947. At the same time Ratt ran his major league record of chances without an error to 775, adding 107 the past season. However, his 206 fielding percentage for two errors in 478 chances for the entire season was second among catchers, Larin Robinson of New York, leading the nominal leader with 39 74 games.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

First Things First

"Our lives are filled with radio, cars, machines and equipment of all kinds, and our lives are almost devoid of deep and quiet satisfaction and inner richness." These are not the words of a moralist or religious leader, but of a scientist. They recall the admonition of the great St. Paul: "To be spiritually-minded is life and peace."

Has our spiritual growth kept pace with the multiplication of space-consuming inventions and time and labor-saving gadgets? Have television and the streamlined car made us better men and women in the sight of God? Have we become more engrossed in the gifts of the Creator than in the Creator Himself? Have the complexity, the tempo, the distractions of modern living made God seem less real than in the simpler and quieter days of, say, thirty years ago?

If the tumults and excitements of this age are to become an intoxication, it is time to remember that the soul thrives best in the sober atmosphere of unhurried and thoughtful living. If our eyes are dazzled by the tinsel and glamor of ultra-modernity, it is time to train them, on the day of last summons—how near or far for any of us we can never know—when the joy and love of the world will be as nothing.

We live in an age when, more than ever, men should meditate on the meaning of existence. The New Year is a time of good resolve. No better resolution can be suggested than to set aside some period of the day to ponder upon the things of God which alone give our existence importance. Above all, we should cultivate the habit of constant and earnest prayer, of regular attendance at church.

Meanwhile, in times of trial and difficulty, we should meditate on the reassuring words of the apostle: "Great peace have they who love Thy law, and nothing shall offend them."

What Character does your handwriting Reveal?

In her column, this week, Andrienne brings you a special analysis of the handwriting of John Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C.

Here is how you too can have your handwriting scientifically analyzed.

All you have to do is send twenty-five cents (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, together with a sample of your handwriting, to Andrienne, care of THE EDMONTON NEWS.

The study of handwriting and document examination constitutes an important phase of the work of the Technical Secretary of the F.B.I.

J. Edgar Hoover

By ANDRIENNE

In analyzing Mr. Hoover's writing it is interesting to note that he is well equipped with all the qualities one would naturally expect to find in the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

THE SIZE, inclination and simplicity of the script are among the outstanding characteristics that immediately attract our attention.

The small, well-balanced, evenly spaced writing is indicative of a scientific mind, fine mental resources, concentration, keen perception and analytical ability.

Excellent self-control, discipline, resistance and endurance are denoted in the almost vertical slant. Emotion and sentiment have no place in his reserved, detached and somewhat aloof personality. Primarily a practical realist, he would not indulge in wild theories. Critical discrimination, exactness, he would not compromise in any halfway measure.

The strong "H" bars, firm pressure, hooked terminals, show his positive and definite nature, resolute determination and persistent stick-to-itiveness.

SECURITY and a non-compromising attitude are also indicated.

Former War Secretary

Would Have Launched Invasion Year Earlier

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. — (AP) — Former war secretary Henry L. Stimson in his wartime biography, "On Active Service," wrote that if he or George Marshall had been the American commander-in-chief "the invasion of France would have been launched in 1943, one year earlier than it actually occurred."

"I would the war have been sooner," he asked. "This is a question in a doubt unknown to certain answer is possible, and the matter is here left open."

Mr. Stimson declared that President Roosevelt's decision to land an allied force in North Africa in the fall of 1942 was disapproved at the time both by Stimson and the United States War Department staff.

The first installment of his biography appears in the January issue of the Ladies' Home Journal.

"Mr. Churchill and his advisers categorically refused to accept the notion of a cross-channel invasion in 1942," Stimson wrote. "Mr. Roosevelt categorically insisted that there must be some operation in 1942. The only operation that satisfied both of these conditions was Torch, the assault on North Africa."

But Stimson indicated that the compromise displeased both him and Churchill.

"The real reason of World War II was not to be found in any revelations of disagreement," he continued. "Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill established and sustained a wartime collaboration which grew ever stronger in the settlement of successive crises."

Stimson declared it wasn't until May of 1943 that Roosevelt took a decisive stand and forced Churchill to agree to a Normandy landing for 1944.

But Churchill, once the idea of cross-channel invasion was cast, became as "magnanimous in reconciliation" as he had been "stubborn and eloquent in opposition," Stimson described as "wholly erroneous" the belief by some post-war writers that the British leaders preferred a Balkan landing in order to block Soviet Russia, and praised the British cooperation.

"The real reason of World War II was not to be found in any revelations of disagreement," he continued. "Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill established and sustained a wartime collaboration which grew ever stronger in the settlement of successive crises."

The 'Tweed'

An old standby in architectural design, The New England Colonial type home illustrated above, has never lost its popularity and it is quite probable that there are more homes constructed along its general line every year than all other types combined.

There are so many little things in which we can be considered as others. Perhaps the following are the most common of the small mistakes we make in etiquette and each one of us will, no doubt, find several which we will recall to correct in the future.

To say "please" and "thank you" for any courtesy rendered.

To be courteous to traffic or when another is talking.

Not to blow the automobile horn unnecessarily.

Not to place a wet glass on furniture to cause a damaging stain.

Not to slam a door in anger.

Not to hang up a telephone receiver before saying "goodbye."

Not to make oneself conspicuous by wearing too much perfume.

Not to monopolize a telephone.

Not to make unkind remarks about other people.

Not to be "the great I am."

New Year's is the time when we are reminded of our national government, and good resolutions are made in every household.

And often run right out of existence about a week later.

Saarland Stamps Being Reprinted

By Gault MacGowan
OFFENTUR, Baden, (CANADA)—A reprinting of stamps for the Saar is now nearing completion in the official printers here only 13 values issued of the former 10 will be issued and the one mark issue will carry the inscription "DMK" instead of the former "IM".

News of the reprinting of the stamps—which had become somewhat scarce—led to a fall in their value to the other issues of Germany by 50 percent. Because of the ban on currency exchange with the Saar in the other zones, they will filter through slowly. They may arrive quicker in America.

But the fact that the stamps are only in part was not generally known at the time of the prior stamp issue. When the full story reveals itself, the prices of the unreleased stamps is expected to rise again.

The first issue printed 10,000,000 stamps. The printing of this new issue, which began Oct. 15, will be only 4,000,000. Those that will not be reprinted—and should hence be more valuable—are the Pigs 8, 25, 40, 45, 75 and 100.

Those that will be reprinted are Pigs 2, 3, 10, 12, which show a Saar miner at work; Pigs 13, 14, 20, 24, metal workers; Pigs 30 and 50, and girls in sugar-beet fields; Pigs 60, Reich church; Pigs 64, Marshal Ney; and the one mark showing the river bend known as the "Buckle of the Saar".

This last is the one to be changed to show one Saar mark instead of one mark, and so the original comes into the history of the currencies as a variety.

As the import of unused stamps of other nations continues to be forbidden in Germany, philatelic interest must concentrate on new local issues. The Saar issue attracts much attention and it may pay off in a small way by the non-reappearance of the values scheduled above.

Expectations are that the present values may not be repeated in their present form if economic unity with France is accorded after the London conference and the country switched from the mark standard to the franc. Then there would have to be a complete reprinting to change figures to centimes.

The Saar stamps are neither printed in the Saarland nor designed by a native son, despite French policy to accentuate its history and culture. This town in southwest Germany is considered by the French the birthplace of early nineteenth-century Prussians in Germany, though the Prussians who suppressed the attempt to establish it saw to it that it is not recorded in their history books or ordinary works of reference that in 1918 was the first freedom committee formed in revolt against the Germans. You must come here to find that out.

Lithuanian Designer
The artist is the same Lithuanian who has designed all the French zone stamps. Prof. V. K. Jovaitis of the faculty of fine arts of the University of Kaunas, from which he fled when the Russians advanced his country. A magnificent glass is necessary to distinguish his signature on the current issue of Saar stamps—unlike those of the other new stamps in the French zone, where, as an afterthought, it was enlarged and made more legible.

Five million of the new one Saar mark will be issued; 10,000,000 each of the 25 Pigs, and the 40 Pigs. There will be 21,000,000 of

Nelson's Home To Be Auctioned

LONDON: (Reuters)—Trafalgar House, home of the Nelson family since the battle of Trafalgar, and its entire estate will be offered next spring for public auction.

Reason for this decision is twofold. First, the British government, after many months' deliberation, has refused to purchase the house for use as a naval establishment. Second, with the death of the present Earl Nelson, 77-year-old great-grand-nephew of Lord Nelson, the government annuity of $20,000 will cease, and the family have decided they can no longer pay for the upkeep of the house, which they have had little reason to control.

Lord Trafalgar, son of Earl Nelson, said: "We had thought the house would make a useful convalescent home for the Royal Navy, but we have had little reason to control."

Trafalgar House, a red-brick, 100-room mansion, is one of the most beautiful in the country. It is situated in the Avon valley within easy reach of Bath, Bristol and Southampton.

The grounds include a wealth of magnificent timber and after standing in an estate of 3,500 acres of parkland about five miles from some of the best pheasant and partridge shooting in the south of England. The water-meadows bordering the River Avon are unsurpassed for snipe, mallard, teal and other wildfowl.

The original Trafalgar property purchased in the year 1800 for $300,000 and presented by the nation to Lord Nelson after he had saved Britain from disaster, is valued only at about 1,500 acres. But an additional 2,000 acres immediately adjoining were purchased by Lord Nelson after he had saved Britain from disaster, is valued only at about 1,500 acres. Two penguins washed ashore in the last stages of exhaustion by high winds and storms in South Africa, were added to East London's zoo, after careful nursing revived them.

Cinchona production in West Java is under way again, since hostilities have ended.

who became one of England's famous women, should be made financially secure. The Nelson family, however, did not require Lady Hamilton, and they received the annuity instead.

Although many of Nelson's relics, including a number of pictures and certain furniture, will be offered for sale, Lord Trafalgar has decided that certain articles shall be retained by the family. These include the admiral's uniforms, the sofa on which his arm was amputated, his watch and his telescope.
